6. Kanarfogel, E. (1992). Jewish education and society in the High Middle Ages. Detroit, MI: Wayne State University Press, produced a valuable study. However, only the first and last chapters deal directly with general education. The second chapter discusses "Attitudes toward the Childhood and the Educational Process," while the remaining three chapters focus on higher education. Kanarfogel's study is surely an indication of the direction in which the study of premodern Jewish education might proceed.

Cairo Geniza

M. Glickman, Sacred treasure — the Cairo Geniza: the amazing discoveries of forgotten Jewish history in an Egyptian synagogue attic (Jewish Lights Publishing, 2010), assumes no prior knowledge and is bang up to date.

A. Hoffman and P. Cole, Sacred Trash: the Lost and Found World of the Cairo Geniza (Nextbook/Schocken, 2011), is described by Harold Bloom as 'a small masterpiece' and will enlighten even seasoned experts on the Collection.

S. C. Reif, A Jewish Archive from Old Cairo: the history of Cambridge University's Geniza Collection (Richmond, Surrey : Curzon Press, 2000), is written by the founding director of the Geniza Research Unit and has an excellent bibliography.
