

Call Me Ishmael: Exploring Jewish Literature Through Digital Communities
Stephanie Kent

Description: Call Me Ishmael has partnered with AJL and the Jewish Book Council to collect and promote stories about the power of Jewish literature. The presentation will share findings from this partnership and focus on how to use online and digital tools to create communities around books and reading.

Stephanie Kent is the Co-Founder and Curator of Call Me Ishmael, a new, innovative storytelling platform that helps bibliophiles discover new books and celebrate their love of reading. She holds a BA in playwriting and literature from Emerson College and is a 2016 National Arts Strategies Fellow.
